WEXFORD—Jan. 5: Some pieces of wreckage, a beam plank, and part of taffrail, with white moulding, apparently belonging to a small vessel, washed ashore at Rosslare, 3d inst.; also a small box, with "Annanive" cut on the lid; it contained a French prayer-book, letters, &c.; letters addressed "Captain Le Moing, Cherbourg."

WEXFORD, Jan. 11.—Portions of a small vessel have washed ashore at the mouth of this harbour. Part of the stern, painted black, has painted on it in white the letters ORD, being apparently the termination of a word.

WEXFORD—Jan. 13: On the 10th inst. part of a small schooner drifted close to the beach in 3½ fathoms, about two-thirds of a mile south of Courtown Harbour. Some portions of the wreck have been salvaged, topsail yard 32 feet long, made of spruce spar, an upper topsail yard painted yellow, some blocks also painted yellow, and some portion of a topsail, all apparently new. No marks whatever on them. At Cahore farther south on same day was washed ashore a schooner's bowsprit 20 feet long, and a lower yard 40 feet long. No marks.

MARGATE, Feb. 27, 4 10 P.M.—Read, fisherman of this port, has picked up in Margate Roads a boat (?) painted green outside, with name on stern "ELISHA KENDALL, of Rochester." Another boat, full of water, has been seen with same name upon it. A lifeboat buoy has washed ashore here, painted green; also a portion of wreckage, to all appearance from a vessel that has been wrecked in this neighbourhood during the NE gale of Wednesday. No tidings of crew.

GREAT YARMOUTH, Feb. 17.—JURA.—It is feared that the screw steamer Jura, of Glasgow, has been wrecked on the Cross Sand off here during last night. The tug Pilot, of this port, went away with our boarding clerk at 4 A.M. to-day, and remained there till 2 P.M. A large quantity of loose wreck was floating about, and what is supposed to have been the dead body of one of the crew was seen floating, but before it could be got it sunk. The two boats were seen and one towed in; a medicine chest, and the engineer's log-book were also picked up. It is feared all the crew are lost.

Another account.—Picked up yesterday, and landed here by steamtug Pilot of this port, lifeboat and medicine chest belonging to steamer Jura, of Glasgow. The Jura is supposed to have been lost on the Cross Sand on the night of the 16th; no tidings of crew.

LONDON, June 25.—PANDORA.—The Daily News of this morning contains the following:—"The stern of the Pandora, a vessel trading between Plymouth and Corunna, has been washed ashore at Hope Cove, with planks completely cut through, leaving no doubt that she was run down near the Eddystone by some vessel, probably an iron steamer, which has not reported the occurrence. It most likely occurred the night after she left Plymouth. She had on board her master, Pepperell, his wife, and five hands."

Essex, which left Bassein April 28 last for United Kingdom (rice).—The owners of this vessel write as follows:—
"Captain Beckett, of the ship Amana, informs us he spoke the Essex on the 9th May, in 8 52 N, 95 E, and by request of Captain Barrett, of the Essex, went on board her with his carpenter. Captain Beckett found that the day before, in perfectly smooth water, the Essex had suddenly sprung a leak on starboard side, right aft, about the 16 feet 6 inches mark, and that after shifting the cargo forward, and tipping the ship, they could hear and see the water coming in, and the vessel was making about two inches of water per hour, which the pumps could easily keep under without the aid of the donkey-engine. They cut away part of the ceiling and stopped the leak. The Essex was afterwards in company with the Amana for three days, and Captain Barrett reported all was right on board. The Essex was afterwards spoken on 22d May in 3 S, 93 E, we believe by the Eastminster, and this is the last information we have of her."

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 21, 1 16 P.M.—“MAID.”—The master of the Urda, from Galveston, reports:—1st inst., 40 N, 54 W, saw a barque suddenly take fire and after burning fiercely for some time, sink; cargo floating about in a blaze; had been in company with vessel for several days; as far as he could make out the name on bow was “Maid, of Sunderland;” owing to fierceness of fire could make no successful effort to save life. He also stated the vessel to have been about 500 tons; old-fashioned barque; English build; painted black; house on deck between pumps and mainmast; had poop and windmill pump; thought she would have been out about eight days from a United States port; supposed cargo to have been petroleum.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 22, 7 50 P.M.—The barque which was passed 1st inst. by the Urda is now supposed to be the MAID OF ORLEANS, as the name on her bow is said to have ended with letters L E A N S. Telegram from Ardrossan states:—“Maid of Orleans left Philadelphia, Dec. 24, with cargo of naphtha. Description corresponds exactly with her. No female on board, so far as known.”

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 23.—FANNY BECK.—In the early part of last month there were found near the island Tova, on the coast of Patagonia, parts of a vessel and a boat, also a sailor's bag, which had apparently not been long in the water. The wreckage consisted of what a vessel generally carries on deck, being spare yard, hatchway covers, barrels, cabin cap, and deck-houses, and appeared to have belonged to a vessel of English build. On one of the cabin doors there was written in pencil "Jenny Breck." It is supposed that the vessel which has been lost was the British brigantine Fanny Beck, which left this port for Patagonia on Oct. 8.

A letter having been written to the owners of the steamer SOMORROSTRO, asking whether they had received any information of the steamer since she sailed from Bilbao on Oct. 5, for Cardiff, has elicited the following answer, dated Cardiff, Oct. 26:—The last news of the steamer Somorrostro is from the master of the steamer Rochefort, which vessel was lying to in the Bay of Biscay, about 60 miles south of the Saintes, on the 6th—7th inst., within sight of the Somorrostro, also lying to. The lights of the Somorrostro were seen from the Rochefort during the night of 6th inst., but at 4 A.M. of the 7th, immediately after a more than usually severe squall, in the height of the hurricane, at the time blowing from SW, the lights of the Somorrostro disappeared, and at that time the vessel is supposed to have foundered with all on board. I have not since heard anything further of the Somorrostro or her crew, and although vessels arriving here have reported passing wreckage in the Bay, nothing has been picked up or identified as belonging to that vessel.

she will therefore have to note protest in Stettin. The master

FIGUEIRA, Dec. 28, 7 40 P.M.—British schooner reported wrecked at Tocha, about nine miles north; the news requires confirmation. Some wreckage has been picked up; a piece has on it the name "MONTGOMERYSHIRE, London."

FIGUEIRA, Dec. 29, 7 55 P.M.—[Later.]—British steamer, not British schooner, totally lost; the wreck lies in deep water; crew and passengers supposed drowned; one man washed ashore dead.

FIGUEIRA, Dec. 31, 7 5 P.M.—MONTGOMERYSHIRE supposed sunk night of 27th December; not sighted before; coastguard and others assert having seen topmasts next morning ebb tide; blowing hard with a heavy sea; washed ashore several hatches and parts of two boats, one latter showing ship's name and owner's flag.

FIGUEIRA, Dec. 30.—No part of the wreck is visible though not further out, it is considered, than about a mile from the shore. No cargo has yet been washed ashore. So far only parts of two boats, a chair, some small casks containing oil and petroleum, part of a mast, a board with the inscription on it "MONTGOMERYSHIRE (s), of London," other broken boards being parts of bulwark, a few barrels of tallow candles, and other trifling items, have been washed ashore. The crew and passengers, if any, are supposed to have perished. One dead man has been washed ashore.

FIGUEIRA, Jan. 1.—MONTGOMERYSHIRE (s).—Referring to report sent on Dec. 30, the dead man washed ashore was half naked, and had a lifebelt tied under his arms. Further wreckage has been picked up, and is under the Custom-house guardianship, such as deck planks, an empty box marked "Thom and Cameron, Glasgow," a box of tea, a quilted sofa and chairs, bedsteads, all more or less broken up, several cabin doors, one of which bears the inscription "Second Engineer" on a metal plate, several buckets with the ship's name on them, mattresses, bolsters, an apparatus to hold the needle, a yard, oars, a portion of the deck with some ironwork attached, part of the capstan, trowsers, one pair of which is marked "Kinaman, Penzance," blankets, shirts, a yellow flag, and other trifling items. One of the Custom-house guards reports having seen on the beach, at some distance from their quarters, a very heavy, good-sized box, locked, which disappeared whilst he went to look for assistance to convey it thence, and so far it has not been possible to trace it.

FIGUEIRA, Jan. 8.—MONTGOMERYSHIRE (s).—Attempts to sound for the wreck of this steamer could not be carried out. The boats in the district being flat bottomed and rudderless, do not go out except in summer, and no men can now be procured to man them, the sea being very rough at this season. Two stanchions have become visible, also a mast, and some yards attached, but floating. Where the wreck occurred the coast is of sand. There are two banks, an inner and an outer one; the vessel lies on the latter a complete wreck, outside slope, with upper part just under the surface of the water. Some of the wreckage has to-day arrived here to be sold by the custom-house. Twenty bodies have already been washed ashore.

Extracts from Lloyd's list -

Valentia by tel. dated (Patience) Dec 9

Picked up off Rallinskelligs
 Dec 8 a lifebuoy marked
 "Shakpore, Liverpool" & crossed flag, red ensign & Scotch Standard; also part of a cabin bulkhead, grained oak and painted light green inside (P. L. Dec 10)

Liverpool Dec 10

The owners of the Shakpore do not attach any importance to the lifebuoy picked up. The vessel was left off Luskar Oct 6 - wind at the time Easterly & strong. They also state that the wreckage does not belong to that vessel, her fittings being made of teak.
